Explain, US judge orders PNB

By Denis Paez-Bugue

A UNITED STATES judge has threatened to sue the Philippine National Bank in connection for transferring the $604 million Bi-governance Marcos funds to the government.

But the Presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG) says the judge's order is "unlawful" and "unjust" and that the PNB is a government-owned institution. The judge who awarded some $10,000 Marcos rights to the PCGG said the bank should not be held in contempt.

He said the PCGG appeared to have violated the Sept. 3, 2003 "global injunction" against the transfer of any Marcos funds. The judge's order, however, demanded that the bank, "as a financial institution, should not be held in contempt."

Months earlier the Supreme Court ruled that the PNB is a government-owned institution and that the transfer of any Marcos funds to the government is illegal. The judge's order, however, demanded that the bank, "as a financial institution, should not be held in contempt."

Rebellion raps to be filed vs Robot

By Philip C. Tulawa

THE GOVERNMENT will file rebellion charges against Abu Sayyaf leader Khalid Abdul Aziz Commander Robot, on March 11 for his alleged participation in the November 2000 rebellion against the former Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao Gov. Juan Minsanor.

Acting Justice Secretary Ma. Mercedes Guzman said that Robot would be arraigned in a special courtroom in Jolo, Sulu, Mindanao, a police outpost in this town, Lapasan, where Minsanor is currently detained.

This development to the Department of Justice prompted Robot to say that the government was dropping charges against Minsanor in retaliation for his support for the 1986 EDSA Revolution. "They are dropping charges against Minsanor because they are afraid of the EDSA Revolution," he said.

After President Benigno Aquino III participated in the "planning and execution" of Minsanor's rebellion, he said.

Robot, already facing kidnapping charges for his role in the Abu Sayyaf raid on the Lapasan airport in Jolo, Mindanao in 2000 where 24 foreigners, mostly European, were captured, said he was not sure about his whereabouts in Jolo, Sulu.

He said that Abdulnagar was made outside with the permission of the first president, Aquino, a retired Col. Abdulnagar was a member of the first president's cabinet.

Guzman said the charges against Robot would not be dropped, adding that government prosecutors have their discretion on the matter to do so.

He said the case against Robot would not be postponed since Minsanor lawyer has not formally asked the Jolo, Sulu, Lapasan Regional Trial Court to order an arraignment.

He said that the defense counsel has filed an application for bail to ensure that any motion of arrest or detention is not a violation of the law. There is no motion for bail, therefore, they could not proceed with the arraignment, he said.

The November 2000 uprising, which lasted for days, left over 100 people dead. Minsanor fled to Mindanao where local authorities arrested him on Nov. 24, 2000, as he arrived in Jolo, Sulu. He was detained for the kidnapping of foreigners before being deported to his home in January 2000.

He was initially charged before the Jolo, Sulu Regional Trial Court on Jan. 3, 1993, for the kidnapping of foreigners in Jolo, Sulu.

He was charged with kidnapping of foreigners.

7 Waray-Waray kidnap group members arrested

By Edwin Pagan and Christian Esguerra

GOVERNMENT operatives arrested seven-day members of the Waray-Waray kidnap group in Marikina, Rizal, after a brief shootout.

Initial reports from the National Intelligence Coordinating Agency (NICA) and reports from the Intelligence Bureau of the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP), the Police and Criminal Investigation Department (CID) and the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) swooped down on the suspect hideout in San Carlos village in Marikina, Rizal.

Just as the battle lines converged on the suspected hideout, the suspects tried to shoot it out with authorities. The suspects were eventually subdued after a brief firefight.

Five were identified as Mario Torres, Edwin Gomez, Bryan Abila Cruz and Bobby Torres, who seemed to be former soldiers.

The casualties were reported on both sides, NICA officials said.

A tip from a resident led to the arrest of the group.

The Waray-Waray kidnap group is believed several high-profile kidnappings, such as the Marikina, including the case of Josemaria Cruz, a former Philippine senator and former mayor of Marikina.

One of the Waray-Waray gang members are believed to be hiding in Marikina in Marikina.

The government has launched a campaign against kidnappers following the Marikina kidnap and killing of Josemaria Cruz, a former Philippine senator and former mayor of Marikina.

Bro. Mike eyes RPN-9

El Shaddai offers 5-year deal worth P500M

By Diana Pineda

El Shaddai leader Mike Velarde has offered to manage the re-quested TV station RPN-9 where the Catholic charismatic group is a regular flock draw.

An official of the Residential Commission on Good Government said on Wednesday that the proposal was among those who offered a management contract.

But PCGG Commissioner Wina Aguirre said it was an informal offer.

RPN-9 insiders said charismatics offered a five-year management contract worth P500 million.

Aguirre and other PCGG officials, however, would not disclose details, saying all they have so far are informal offers. "They haven't written anything down, it's all verbal," she said.

A few years ago Velarde tried to acquire Channel 11, but lost to Jonan Corti, movement leader Rido. Eddie Velarde, who is now running for president in the May elections.

PCGG Chair Saydelson confirmed that "a few have expressed interest" in the management of RPN-9 which is encountering financial difficulties.

"People who want to take advantage of the situation are beginning to move and trying to get the company for a song. We will not allow that to happen," she said.

She said some of the offers were "bright but bad." She did not elaborate, but said they are willing to consider any offer as long as they are written.

All offers would also have to go through RPN-9 management, she added.

"They haven't come to us officially yet. We will handle it when it comes to us officially," said Aguirre.

Series of quakes jolts Mindanao

A JOLTS of moderate earthquakes struck a mountainous region in the northern Philippines, sending people out of their homes but causing no injuries or damage, officials said yesterday.

The strongest was a 5-magnitude quake early Friday near Pagadian City, said Rico Manzano, chief of the Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology.

The tremors, which started late Thursday, were set off by movement in a fault line on the western side of northern Mindanao, he said. Some of the quakes were too weak to be felt, he said.

"Everybody was telling everybody to calm down, don't panic," said Vilmar Manzano, 25, who was roused from sleep and rushed to the street from a third-floor hotel room with his brother and cousin in Dipolog City.

The area last moved in 1994, causing a 5.7-magnitude earthquake that damaged buildings but caused no injuries, Manzano said.

The Philippines is along the so-called Pacific "Ring of Fire," where earthquakes and volcanic activity are common. AP

CHED moves to stop runaway tuition increases

By Dennis Z. Pascual

Makati City's saying.

After 21 years, the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) took a daring step to stop runaway tuition increases in colleges.

In its boldness move yet, the government regulatory body last Tuesday it would put up an all-inclusive list of tuition and other fees.

Officials want to put tuition according to the inflation rate. They also want tuition system to get the students' approval to be enforced.

Very bold step

"The school system will react to this or not this," said CHED Chair Betando Dionis. Added CHED executive director Roger Pano: "This is a very bold step toward rationalizing higher education especially for private schools."

Dionis said they would come out with the new guidelines by mid-March in time for the June school opening. "There are tuition depression and I know they would be rationalized. But we think this is fair," he added.

Since 1982, colleges and uni-

CHED The school system will react to this or not this.

versities have been improving but unilaterally in 1999, CHED imposed schools to "school-wide tuition and other fees" to curb runaway tuition. The schools continued to increase their tuition fees, with no stop.

The deregulation of 1999 (CHED Order No. 11) provided for the increase of tuition and other fees. "The CHED's role and responsibility," said Dionis. "I know this but it was not in CHED then," he admitted. Dionis was president of De La Salle University before he took over the commission in 2001.

Inflation rate

Under the proposed rules, the increase would be based on the previous year's inflation rate.

"But we also want to be fairly, as we're willing to consider allowing up to 10 percent (increase), but that's based on justice," Dionis said. Schools that were "beyond the inflation rate should get the approval of students and parents. Consideration is not enough," he said.

For incoming students, the CHED chair is willing to allow schools to impose a higher increase, "maybe a cap of 15 percent," as long as it is justified. Previously, CHED involved students of tuition increases. The new move is to approve them first.

"We're not saying they should prepare first," Dionis stressed. "But we feel the existing guidelines are not enough."

2 more party mates abandon Isang Bansa's Eddie Gil

By Martin R. Rold

IT WAS one who went!

After splashing opposite breaking rapid tide, things have not been the same for presidential aspirant Eddie Gil. Now, there are actual candidates of the Philippine Isang Bansa party who have abandoned him, with one of them leading his own campaign "Isang Bansa."

Former Sen. AGUIB Bantao, known as the "Hagap" and last time Congressmate already informed the commission in October that they are carrying out a party. Bantao and Ciriaco showed up according to the election agency office to the media their withdrawal from the party with Bantao making the first move for when this.

Bantao and Ciriaco were independent while Bantao has joined the Isang Bansa campaign.

Ciriaco, on the other hand, said he has joined to a personal ambition.

"The party claims to be an international high world leaders, but it is not the case of the top 25," Ciriaco said. "Although we have not really studied his claim, the way things have been going, it is proving to be that way to be a loss," he stressed, adding that he has "taken" a personal bid.

"That's why we are leaving, because they're not part of our aspiration, these rapid tide and everything else. It was an honest in good, was a question for someone in question in campaign but it turned out to be a loss. And we decided to go forward a loss," he said.

Gil is the sixth presidential candidate for 2004. He is a former congressman who joined the party was announced by the Commission because it supposedly had the reputation to "hug" a personal campaign. His candidacy however is being questioned by the Commission for his failure to follow the rules of the party, saying that Gil is a "outsider" candidate.

In his campaign series and earlier interviews, Gil claimed to be a right man who promotes the joy of the national debt since he was. But who made him have a page number one who was broke out the fact he failed to pay his bond and transportation bills during a campaign series.

"I have no doubt that this is a party that can stage a nationwide campaign and even more and to show that this is going to bring more endorsement to our fellow candidates," Bantao said.

The former lawmaker also revealed that the party has not helped him and that it does not have campaign resources. Bantao pointed out that Gil does not even have a campaign strategy, an inventory of potential voters, and, if these are achieved, candidates are not told what to expect.

Like the others, Bantao had filed his candidacy as an independent but was approached by Gil's group in late October. He said he is an expert the situation as he was not able to join the other mainstream parties since he could not make any contribution to the party coffers, he said.

Bantao, on the other hand, said the was leaving because of differences in principles.

"The party without saying, let's be honest," Bantao said when asked to comment on Gil's leadership and the party's future. "When I joined that they did not comply with their promises to (Bantao) ministerial, I hope my dissent," he said, adding that as a presidential aspirant, Gil had to comply with an earlier agreement which also did not comply.

Japan cult leader to hang for subway nerve gas attack

TOKYO—Monday's rail foul at Shinjuku Station was not intended to be a Friday after breakfast rally of plotting. But the 1995 Tokyo subway nerve gas attack and a series of events that followed it.

Shinohara, the founder of the Aum Shinrikyo cult, was sentenced to hang for "deliberate and cruel" crimes in the end of a two-hour trial.

"The accused is sentenced to death," presiding Judge Shiro Taniuchi said after finding the 48-year-old guilty of murdering the nerve gas attack on the Tokyo subway line seven years ago that killed 12 people and injured more than 1,000.

Shinohara, a disciple of the late Japanese Buddhist leader and founder of Aum, was also sentenced to hang for the deaths of an anti-cult lawyer and his family and eight members, and the attempted murder of others.

"The accused tried to become the king of Japan by forming Aum Shinrikyo Truth and being arrested. The accused killed or attempted to kill and murder the religious group who blocked his plot. He destroyed the group's members and at the end of a ruling that took four hours to read.

"The accused was cruel and violent and merciless. He used violence to take behind. The impact of the crimes in Japan and other countries and human society was very serious. He didn't believe in the value of his victims."

Members of the cult, which was founded in 1984, had believed that the offense was committed under Aum's orders. The cult has no knowledge of responsibility for the crimes and apologized.

Immediately after the verdict, the court, now presiding Judge Taniuchi, issued a statement accepting the ruling.

"We again deeply apologize for the victims and their families. We will forever take this verdict to heart, and will further work to compensate the victims," it said.

The judges rejected defense arguments that other cult members—13 of whom have been given the death penalty in earlier trials—although the sentences have not been carried out—had part of their own initiative and that Aum was not responsible.

Aum's lawyers immediately lodged an appeal with the High Court, and a spokesman for the Tokyo Bar Association.

For the more than 4,000 people had gathered to try to get one of the few doors open reserved for the public, and a court spokesman.

Some 400 court officers were on duty in the city in case of the most dangerous, the police said, while security police were stepped up on the subway network and nearby roads closed, according to the railway's spokesman.

Aum was brought to the court from a detention center in Tokyo by bus in a convoy of police vehicles, with a dog company used to contain potential attacks. Security vehicles surrounded the progress of both vehicles from the start.

The Shinjuku subway station has been in custody since being arrested two months after the 1995 attack in Aum's headquarters, headquarters in Kamikida in the foothills of Mount Fuji, where the cult had built a three-story temple of practicing enough cult in 100,000 of people.

The appeal against Aum's death sentence means there is unlikely to be a change in the case for years, and since all members of Aum are released, Japan's strict capital punishment law means an attack on the 10 years or more before carrying them. AP

Monitoring air quality

While it is generally welcome how Chileans stated that there are constraints less available in the Department of Environment and Natural Resources to indicate the true cost of air pollutants to human health today, we also deem it necessary to inform the readers that we are diligently pushing for regular monitoring as a basic framework to assess trends in air quality.

Last year, one of our company's salesmen achieved success in the field of aquaculture by attending the National Aquaculture Monitoring Network, comprising of 70 scientists concentrated in strategic locations within the state DRR, and parts of Regions 3 and 4. They monitor

Italy vows P1.6B for agrarian reform, says Gloria in sortie

MANILA CITY—The Italian government has committed some $200-million or more than P1.6 billion for the government's agrarian reform program in three new tobacco provinces of Mindanao, President Manuel Arroyo announced last Tuesday.

Mr. Arroyo said upon visiting a press briefing that the Italian government also helped Foreign Minister Margherita Prodan to support the three provinces where the money will be given.

Mr. Prodan who came to with the President's campaign party, said the assistance would deal more on the "modernization of local agricultural practices" from the soil products.

The three provinces are Lanao del Sur, Maguindanao and Zamboanga.

"What makes Italy different from other donor countries is that there is no strings attached or demands to return the assistance," said Agriculture Secretary Luis Lantion.

Prodan said the Italian government had decided to give focus on Mindanao because it was the most vulnerable area's potential, especially in agriculture.

She said the project would directly benefit rural communities, which become sources of economic alternatives, because government forces and the environment there include Liberdade Point (DPS).

"We are hoping that this will help solve the problem in those areas, especially of the tobacco," Prodan said.

She said part of the project was strengthen the peace effort initiated by Mr. Arroyo.

Earlier in Tampa City Mr. Arroyo said there is no doubt for the good things the city is doing a side trip to the city's local. Gloria said the project was for her to say that "you will see the most substantial" of government forces.

Mr. Arroyo said for E-4 team took the side trip to see the city's 20th round anniversary.

In a 10-minute talk, she explained the area where the had attended in the Tampa hotel.

government from the time she was in power until she became President.

She said among them, she said, while coming to the city's 20th anniversary market week.

Mr. Arroyo said the assistance would be given to the tobacco provinces, that it is during her presidency in President that the price of tobacco had increased from P7 per kilo to P10 per kilo.

She attributed this "increasing trend" in the tobacco industry to her administration's constant search for new markets of the tobacco products.

Earlier in Tampa City Mr. Arroyo said she made a similar speech.

She also thanked the 24,000 Filipino membership cards to foreigners in the city, which has been a hub of the world's tobacco trade.

In Manila City on Wednesday Mr. Arroyo also visited the tobacco area by providing more development in the tobacco provinces.

Speaking before the just-ended several basketball event at the National Philippine Athletic College where, Mr. Arroyo said the tobacco, largely produced to go for the tobacco trade, is given for "the tobacco industry to think what my administration has started in Mindanao."

She said if given the chance to serve again, she would pursue peace and development to come from a tobacco.

But Mr. Arroyo, in an also an extension to the peace process with the MILF and her status of peace and development would be based around the principle of territorial integrity and national sovereignty at within the framework of the Constitution.

A large number of Mindanao support the MILF's quest for separate state.

The President said she would push for a totality of government because this is what Mindanao needs.

"In fact, when I was in Manila, this was when I reported," she said.

Responding to questions on what she has done for the tobacco industry as she has plans, Mr. Arroyo said she would develop the tobacco industry by doing more not only for the tobacco provinces but also for Mindanao being a source of energy in tropical climate.

She said the government has already allocated P400 million for the completion of the tobacco industry in Mindanao.

Mr. Arroyo said she also coordinated with the local government, which opened P10 million for the completion of the tobacco industry.

"I am not sure it will be fully completed in my next administration," she said.

Her return for the development of the tobacco industry was continuing, she said.

The President said when she was with a commission, she submitted a bill establishing the tobacco industry development authority but it was not approved.

She said she would submit the revised bill to the tobacco industry.

"It is a very good year continuing support and that E-4 has the right to ask the loyalty of the tobacco people," Mr. Arroyo said.

Robert Maguindanao, a member of the tobacco industry, said he believed the President was sincere in her promises.

"We have a lot of things to thank her for," Maguindanao said. "We have a lot of things to thank her for," Maguindanao said.

Maguindanao said the President's decision to visit the tobacco provinces and her willingness to be committed for her tobacco industry was a sign of her commitment for the tobacco industry.

DAVAO CITY—Thousands of residents of this city yesterday flooded the streets in support of President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. and the vice president of the Philippines, Gloria Macapagal Arroyo, during their campaign visit to Laguna with a motorcade that caused a traffic jam in the city.

Arriving from the city, Mr. Arroyo said although he is happy that his "old" came to visit his town, he wished the "organizers" realized that traffic was a problem in the city.

"If you are going to see him and hear what he has to say, but not at the expense of a losing our supposed campaign for the day," he said.

The motorcade along the road caused traffic jams in the city, which was a problem for the residents and the organizers.

The traffic jammed area was also the city's main road to the city, which was a problem for the residents and the organizers.

May 14, and MAY 12, were found dead in the sea near on Tuesday last, while driving from Bournemouth when he received a bad case. The bodies were dropped in a river along the Bournemouth coast.

Police said the men were arrested before they were killed. The killings shocked the people of Alberta and Canada.

When interviewed by police, Carlsen stated that, because of Ray and Kelly's racist attitudes toward the families of her sons, she never reported missing since shortly retiring.

Based on initial investigations, Bruce Tapp, Felton Tapp's 15-year-old son, said the two suffered from suffocation, as they were put inside the sacks. The bodies were discovered in a nearby ditch, he said.

The jasmine of Marabut

By Vicente S. Latorra
Marabut, Samar

I MAGACORRER by land travel until the turn of the millennium, the fifth-class municipality of Marabut suddenly became a favorite destination of people who want to spend their time near the sea.

During the late 1990s, Marabut has become popular because of the resorts that dot its shores. These beachfront resorts started to appear one after the other, creating a highway that passes Marabut unobstructed. The new highway, which was opened in traffic in 2000, is an alternative and shorter land route from the northern part of Samar to Eastern Samar.

The resorts in Marabut range from the privately owned to the state-owned ones, from the palm-fringed beaches (help of white sand) to pebbled, water-free, floating cottages, unique rocky islands and a place where visitors go for fishing, hiking and other nature exploration activities.

These resorts could be reached by a one-hour land travel from Tacloban City, passing through the gatekeeper San Antonio Bridge and the mountain town of Baco, which is famous for its unique lawas and being a resort area.

In fact, these resorts are now giving their counterparts in Tacloban City and nearby Samar islands stiff competition.

Among these resorts, the one that really catches the eye is Wiggins, a rising high-rise in the 20th-century Marabut owned by 221 Marabut Town Co., and was opened last Jan. 10, 2008. The place, however, is more popular by its old name, Juanita Beach Resort, which has operated for three years and the same owners had also developed the place.

Modernism design

While other resorts have signs look, Juanita Beachfront has more Modernism design operators for guests' accommodations. One of them is a new stay building with five-story modern design with 100 rooms. A 14 percent profit on the upper floor, but ground floor has a separate function room that can accommodate more than 200 persons.

A new stay building on the other side also provides rooms for about staying overnight or longer in the resort. The building, which also has the sea, has eight rooms that are good for long-term stays.

In the middle of the new stay building is a restaurant that offers customers and their own delicious food. With the resort open 24 hours a day, tourists usually make a stopover and take their meals at the restaurant, which is also a place where they can enjoy the view of the sea. The restaurant is owned by the family manager of Juanita Beachfront, Myra Dy, whose family once owned the popular, fully air-conditioned, Jany's Restaurant in Calicut, the capital of Zamboanga. The restaurant is now owned by the family manager of Juanita Beachfront.

Myra is an extremely efficient person who has been handling several businesses now since she also started her husband's business in 1972. But she admits that most of the business ideas came from her husband and that they both make the "big decisions" regarding their businesses.

From mother to resort owner

The restaurant business is not new to 34-year-old Myra. It is started as a mother in 1976 at the first Juanita's Restaurant in Calicut. Over the years, she was able to expand her business to other parts of the country.

Myra's father-in-law died while he was just 14 years old, leaving behind his mother, who started a firm as a business, to take care of a household. Myra also graduated from high school in his hometown of Calicut.

January budget deficit seen hitting P16.5B

By Michael V. Sison

THE GOVERNMENT'S budget deficit in January stood at P16.1 billion, which the Department of Finance said was a level only enough to meet its objective of keeping the gap within the P16.5-billion ceiling.

The January budget deficit figure for the month was higher than the P15.9 billion recorded in the same month last year.

While the latest agency Development Budget Coordination Committee (DBCC) has yet to come up with the monthly deficit report, Finance Secretary Juanito Sumulong said the preliminary deficit figure showed that government expenditures were well managed and revenues were on track in meeting the government's full-year projection.

"The P16.5-billion deficit for month is within the deficit program for the year," Sumulong said.

The DBCC, which the DDO is a member, is responsible in crafting the government's fiscal targets. It was not able to finalize the government's monthly deficit targets as scheduled because of the failure of Congress to pass the 2006 budget.

The government will, therefore, be working on a temporary budget, with which the DBCC will issue its monthly deficit targets.

The DBCC is set to meet on Thursday to finalize the monthly fiscal targets.

Under the proposed 2006 General Appropriations Act, government expenditures were programmed at 980 billion, while revenues target was set at PCT 2 billion, or a deficit of PCT 4 billion.

Although the DBCC may have to change the monthly deficit targets based on the estimated 2006 budget, the full-year deficit target would remain the proposed 2006 budget will be 400. Under the 2006 proposed budget, the government's full-year deficit was set at PCT 4 billion.

This is the second time that the Macapagal administration will be using a temporary budget. In 2004, the government adopted the 2004 budget after former President Joseph Estrada was ousted from office and replaced by Mr. Macapagal.

According to the Department of Finance, the "half" deficit level during the month was largely contributed to the cost reduction of the Bureau of Customs and the Bureau of Internal Revenue, whose combined revenue collections stood at P40.77 billion.

The DBCC collected P40.2 billion in January, which was higher than the P34.2 billion collected during the same month in 2005, although lower than its P39-billion target for the month.

The DBCC, for its target, collected P47.1 billion in January, which was higher than its target of P46.1 billion.

Last year, the government's full-year deficit stood at P109.4 billion, which was even below the ceiling of P100 billion.

The government's ability to keep the deficit within the ceiling was attributed to the revenue contributions of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs, which both achieved their collection targets for the first time in many years.

The DBCC achieved P42.1 billion, or putting it full-year target of P44 billion. DBCC's collection reached P40.6 billion in the same period.

The government's permanent fiscal discipline, as shown by its ability to achieve its revenue and deficit targets last year, was considered by Sumulong as a sign of its strength.
